Welcome Screen

Hey, Boomers!

'Tis the season to be jolly - or so they say. I'm certainly feeling jolly - jolly well fed up!

Those lazy humes started their Christmas party about a week ago and have left me to produce Britain's top Sega-powered comic almost single-handedly! That normally wouldn't be a problem for such a talented droid as myself, but I was also landed with the job of producing, not one, but two issues of the brilliant new Sonic The Poster Mag, organise competitions, decorate the office, write the Christmas cards and keep the humes' party stocked with large packets of smokey bacon flavoured crisps! Phew, glad I installed my heavy-duty batteries!

Though I do say so myself, I'm pretty chuffed with Sonic The Poster Mag. Two mega-brilliant posters, backed up with great features - and only £1.35 each. If you haven't already got one, rush out and buy STPM no.1 now. It features a giant poster of Sonic in underwater action, and reveals stacks of info about the new Sonic The Hedgehog TV cartoon series. STPM no.2 stars ol' Egg Breath himself, Doctor Robotnik, in another giant poster and features detailed hints and tips on how to defeat the bad Bosses in the new Sonic Chaos game.

Now, wasn't there something I was going to tell you about this issue concerning a new series? Oh, yes. The newest STC superstar joining us next issue is...Tails! That's right, so many of you have begged us to let Tails have his own series, that that's just what we're going to do. So, stand by, Tails fans - your hero begins his adventures in two weeks' time in our special Christmas issue!

Gotta go now, those lazy humes have run out of crisps again.

S.T.C. NEWS

TAILS FLIES SOLO!

Dateline: Emerald Hill Zone. Miles 'Tails' Prower, constant companion of Mobius hero, Sonic The Hedgehog, has mysteriously disappeared from the Zone. Members of G.R.O.O.M., (Get Robotnik Out Of Mobius Movement), reported seeing the young, twin-tailed fox, disappearing into a strange portal that seemingly materialised out of thin air a few days ago. Witnesses claim to have seen other fox-like creatures through this unnatural doorway before it suddenly disappeared.

Just what has happened to Tails? A full report will begin in the very next issue of STC - the comic that tells it like it is!

SUPER SUBS

Having trouble getting hold of STC on a regular basis? About to move to some remote part of the planet, but can't bear to miss out on a single issue? Fret no more. . .subscribe to Sonic The Comic! That's right, from this issue, STC is available on subscription. Make sure of an entire year's supply of Britain's Only Official Sega Comic by turning to the back of this issue now.

Hint: STC Subs make great gifts. Drop a word in a generous adult's ear now.

Get ready for the ultimate Sonic the Hedgehog game! Sonic CD is the most amazing Sonic adventure to date, with over 75 levels to work through. You are up against old Egg-Features once again. Yes, Doctor Robotnik is back, fatter and uglier than ever. To beat him you not only have to work your way through many new zones, but you actually do some time travelling back to the past and into the future.

All the familiar Sonic moves are there - like dash and spin attacks - plus many additional new moves, like a speedy run, with Sonic's legs looking like rubber bands!

Like Sonic 2, collecting over a set number of gold rings warps you to a special bonus round. This time Sonic is running along a scaled road trying to collect rings while taking out alien ships above him. This is fast, fun and makes you incredibly dizzy!

What really helps to set this new Sonic romp apart from the previous cart-based games is the incredible music, which has some seriously huge 'choons' as well as mournfully soulful ballads.

The gameplay also has a few novel touches with Sonic taking super-leaps off floors to scale heights, plus there's also some weird springs rolling around on casters!

If you want to see what the Mega CD can do, then you will not be disappointed with Sonic CD. It has plenty of levels, fabby music, great gameplay combos, an amazing bonus round, and even a level select cheat!

There's lot's more about this game - in fact too much for the space available here. A glance at the mega-special preview of Sonic CD, STC 9's News Zone, will show you just how good it looks.

By the way, if you should happen to complete the game, you get to see a gob-smacking end sequence and some awesome scaling. Go for it! - VL.

PGA TOUR GOLF

game type: SPORTS
1 PLAYER

PGA Tour Golf started life as a sports sim for the PC. Creators Electronic Arts then issued improved versions on the Mega Drive and SNES. Now Tengen, eager to capitalise on its good rep, have licensed it for all Master System and Game Gear owners, albeit without most of its lush green gloss.

What remains are the bare bones of a good golf game. The gameplay initially looks quite promising. The opening menu screen offers several game options (a practice round, a visit to the driving range, a putting green, the full blown tournament) and the option of playing against a computer generated opponent. Sadly, what follows is easily more, worth [illegible] for.

For starters, the graphic screens build slowly and the sight of a white ball bouncing about in a largely featureless green box, doesn't come close to fresh mown cut grass and sandy pits.

And Tengen can't blame the humble Master System for the weak display. Sega's own (ancient) Golf Mania is evidence that an 8 bit console can deliver a golf game that's interesting to look at and fun to play.

It's not all bad, though. Games can be saved with the battery back-up and resumed later on, and the secret of a good slice takes time to learn.

For what it's worth, there's very little difference between the Master System and the Game Gear versions of PGA Tour Golf but neither cart exhibits much in the way of an interesting noise. SM.

[illegible] ETERNAL CHAMPIONS

Eternal Champions challenge street fighters

As hinted at in the Zone last issue, Sega is about to take you to the next level in fighting games! Eternal Champions is a big 24 Megabit) tournament game for the Mega Drive, due for release next month.

Eternal Champions will seriously challenge Streetfighter 2 with its new features and incredible depth of gameplay and storyline. The key to this new game is the fact that it was designed specifically for use at home rather than being just another arcade conversion. E.C. features over 300 moves with each of the nine starring characters having seven special moves of their own.

The scene is set in the far future with The Eternal Champion pulling together the greatest fighters from history to help save Earth's future. You have to choose a fighter and then beat all the rest of them before you eventually square up to the Eternal Champ in a battle to the finish!

The graphics are awesome with the biggest characters ever seen on the Mega Drive. Super sound samples give bone-crunching effects and some of the moves are blindingly fast.

Eternal Champions' nine characters are each unique in their appearance, fighting style, and special moves. If they (or you!) perform exceptionally well in battle there are also special end sequences to show their fates.

Midknight and Trident duel it out near the ancient city of Atlantis.

Eternal Rivals square off in old Salem, where witches and warlocks were burned at the stake!

Let's meet the Champs!

M.A.X. COSWELL
Half-man and half-cyborg from 2345 A.D. Fighting style: Thai Kick Boxing.

JETTA
A circus acrobat from 1[illegible] A.D. Fighting style: Savate, the art of hand and foot fighting.

SLASH
A hunter from the dawn of time. Fighting style: Any move or attack that will cause pain or damage!

BLADE
Bounty hunter. Fighting style: Kenpo; a hand and foot method.

SHADOW YAMOTO
A corporate assassin from the present day. Fighting style: Taijutsu-Ninjitsu, combining the precursor to judo and the art of invisibility.

MIDKNIGHT
Once a bio-chemical scientist from 2181 A.D., now a living vampire. Favours the Hapkido fighting style.

LARGEN TYLER
An ex-cat burglar from 1920's Chicago. Fighting style: Praying Mantis Kung Fu.

TRIDENT
Amphibious gladiator from Atlantis, 110 B.C. Fighting style: Capo Geria, gladiatorial martial art.

XAVIER
A warlock and alchemist from Salem, 1692 A.D. Fighting style: Hapkido Cane.

The game features a whole host of options and play modes to help you define and refine your skills and you can play it with either three or six button pads!

Eternal Champions is likely to be one of the hot games of 1994 and STC will be bringing you lots more information about the characters, the game and some mega-surprises we've got up our sleeves. Stay in touch with STC!

[illegible] Tips

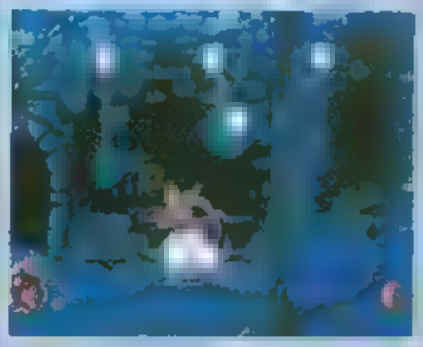
The second best Sega game ever created (Sonic is first, of course!) Aladdin was greeted with amazement by everyone due to the standard of animation. With the majority of Sega owners either having the game or due to get it for Christmas, I thought I would give you some tips to help you along the way



1. Remember to touch the Blue Vases in the event of you dying, this enables you to re-start from this point inside of the beginning
2. If you are finding it difficult to get past the knife-throwing baddies, try using the Apples [illegible] often before you reach them. A good idea is to jump on the Knife after it has been thrown to stop your energy being depleted [illegible] you can. This way, when the level is complete, you will have a chance to earn more lives etc on the [illegible]
4. Whenever you see a Camel, jump on its back to get rid of enemies
5. At the end of the level Agrabah Rooftops you will encounter the first two bosses. The first one is easy, hit him eleven times but watch out for his fast moving sword. The second boss is also easy if you know the technique. When a barrel is thrown, jump in the air and throw an apple. Repeat this to defeat him
6. During Abu's bonus rounds, keep to the centre of the screen. That way when anything falls from the sky you can quickly determine which way to go to avoid being hit

Shoppers' Paradise

Dear STC,

I was walking around the local supermarket with my gran, bored out of my mind, while she bought lots of rubbish. I decided to wander off and look at the magazines and then I saw it - Sonic the Comic. I ran back with the issue to my gran shouting: "Can I have IT" "O.K.", she said, and I rose it all the way round the aisles until we got to the check-out counter.

Christopher Guest, Alderley Edge, Cheshire. Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

So, Christopher, you only want to know your kindly gran when you need something from her. Have you thought of becoming a politician when you grow into a bigger bum?

Eyes of Sonic and Tails come together at the Carlisle Summer Play Scheme. Sent in by Bill Taylor, N. Lancing, Sussex. Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

S-T-She

Dear STC,

What I want to know is: are there any other girls out there? I'm sure I'm not the only girl who reads STC. Computer games are not just for boys. I also think you should print more letters and drawings. Apart from that, keep up the good work.

Helen Williams, Newport, Gwent. MD owner. Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

Actually, Helen, I sympathise with the bloke who thinks he's in charge, because of the two bossy female-types here at STC. But I do agree that computer games are not just for boys - or humans, for that matter.

What a Load of...

Dear STC,

After reading through an issue, I thought, 'what complete pile of . . . quality reading'. Not a black and white rip-off in sight. Excellent! But I must say that you should always include free gifts like stickers and badges just to make it more than worth it.

Mark Warne, Chichester, West Sussex. Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

What a complete . . . coincidence, Mark. You must be ecstatic after our recent spree of free cover gifts.

Blue Humour

Dear STC,

I am so jolly, I've decided to write some hedgehog jokes:

Q: What did the daddy hedgehog say to his naughty son before he spanked him?

A: This is going to hurt me more than it hurts you.

Q: Who won the boxing contest between the hedgehog and fox?
